

Dear

I just became aware of a new online summer reading program that is free of charge. The program is called Letter P.A.L.S. Summerfest 2009. You can learn more about it online at www.letterpals.org. I have visited the web site, and they have developed a great way to get children reading daily from June 22 through August 2.

Summerfest 2009 is a teacher/classroom-orchestrated program only, and in order for us to participate, you have to register the classroom. We are very interested in having our child participate, and I am certain other parents and guardians will feel the same way. I hope you will consider signing up the classroom.

Sincerely,
